Fall Recap

The past several months were busy for the squadron and individual cadets. During this period, ten new cadets joined us, many of whom have already earned their curry awards. In October, several members took to the sky on their first O-flights while others traveled to the American Heritage Museum for the Battle For The Airfield Reenactment. A Halloween Party and a Holiday Party in December allowed cadets to socialize in a less formal environment. And based on the smiles at both parties, I think everyone enjoyed themselves.

Field Trip

A small group of cadets and senior members traveled to Hudson, MA, for the Battle For The Air Field WW2 reenactment. In addition to watching the reenactment, the group explored the museum's many exhibits, which included everything from aircraft from the early 1900s to modern-day tanks.

Halloween Fun

On October 26, the squadron held its first Halloween Party during its weekly meeting. The fun started off with eyeball spoon relay races and then moved on to pin the spider on the web. My favorite, though, might have been the marshmallows on a string.

Earhart Award Ceremony

Over the summer, C/Capt V. Kardell from the Mt. Washington Squadron, C/Capt S. Tetreault, C/Capt T. Batherwich, who is now a part of the Nashua Squadron, and C/Capt E. Tetreault completed all the requirements for the Earhart Award. Only three percent of the 22,000 Civil Air Patrol cadets nationwide earn this award. To celebrate their achievements, Capt McAdoo organized an award ceremony during which Senator Carson presented the cadets with their certificates and certificates of recognition from the NH State Senate. New Hampshire's new Wing Commander, Col Goupil, joined us for the event.

Holiday Party

The Aviation Museum of New Hampshire graciously allowed us to visit the museum for the second year in a row and hold a squadron holiday party. Cadets and senior members enjoyed pizza, desserts, and hot chocolate while exploring the museums, playing games, and, based on the laughter, having fun.
